ALLOTMENT GARDENS

Would you like to grow your own fruit and vegetables?

Have your name on the lengthy council waiting list for an allotment?
Why not prepare yourself by taking on a raised bed at the garden?
Our experienced members are always happy to help and advise.

Several of our members have now transitioned to council plots and were glad of the experience they gained at the gardens.

Or perhaps you just fancy a smaller, more manageable growing space?
Our raised beds are a great solution (and easier on your back!)

Cambuslang Allotment Gardens is a community-run initiative that began in response to a shortage of allotment growing space in the local authority area.

We have raised beds available for annual rental at low nominal fees. We also have a community plot which we all contribute to and a polytunnel (shown above) for communal use.

Families are more than welcome to join. Teach your kids where the potatoes for their chips come from and how tomatoes are grown before they become ketchup!

If you'd like to know more or join the group there are lots of ways to get in touch. Contact us through our website, by email, on Facebook or Twitter (details on overleaf). If you'd prefer to chat in person then drop us a line and let us know and we'll let you know when best to catch us at the garden!

Everyone is welcome, whether you've never grown before or you've got ten green fingers!
